

“The Intrinsic Value of Nature”

by Mary Munson, J.D., and Gloria L. Schaab, Ph.D.
a forthcoming issue of

Resonances: Soundings from Law and Theology Toward an Earth-Centered Jurisprudence The Center for Earth Jurisprudence monograph series

If future generations are to remember us with gratitude rather than contempt, we must leave them something more than the miracles of technology. We must leave them a glimpse of the world as it was in the beginning, not just after we got through with it.

– President Lyndon B. Johnson

This first offering in the Center for Earth Jurisprudence’s interdisciplinary monograph series delves into the legal and theological grounding for recognition of the intrinsic value of nature. In it, Center for Earth Jurisprudence (CEJ) legal director Mary Munson, J.D., considers arguments for integrating respect for the intrinsic value of nature into law from three jurisprudential perspectives. Gloria L. Schaab, SSJ, Ph.D., assistant professor of systematic theology, associate dean for general education curriculum at Barry University and consultant for CEJ, leads the theological exploration of models of relationship between God and the natural world. The issue includes an introduction by CEJ executive director Patricia Siemen, O.P., J.D., and reflection exercises by Margaret Galiardi, O.P., M.A.

Available this summer

To order: Please contact Carol Rauseo-Danclair.

E-mail: crauseo-danclair@stu.edu

Telephone: 305-474-2488

Special offer: For Catholic Theological Society of America members ordering through the CEJ, the cost will be $5; 10 for $40.

The Center for Earth Jurisprudence, a joint initiative of St. Thomas and Barry universities’ law schools, seeks to re-envision law and governance from an Earth-centered perspective.

The Center for Earth Jurisprudence

<http://earthjuris.org>

